Weston Manor Hotel Afternoon Tea

The History

The British tradition of afternoon tea is said to have started with Anna the 7th Duchess of Bedford in the early 1840.

The Duchess, always hungry by mid-afternoon would request to served bread, butter, cakes, biscuits and tea. It soon became a fashionable pastime of the upper class to have afternoon tea.

Weston Manor Hotel Afternoon Tea

English breakfast blend

A robust, full-bodied, malty leaf tea made from unblended Assam and Ceylon. The broken leaves make for a strong brew – just what is required first thing in the morning

Earl grey blend

Bright, fruity and ever popular, our Earl Grey is made from the finest Chinese black tea, and flavoured with aromatic and stimulating natural oil of bergamot.

Rooibos Tea

Naturally red in colour and smooth to taste, this caffeine-free alternative to tea is a traditional South African favourite, with a smooth slightly sweet taste and is harvested from red bush plants

Organic Peppermint

Our calming, soothing, refreshing pure peppermint infusion is both organic and caffeine-free

Chai Tea

This particular maté is toasted and slightly Smokey, providing a delightfully unusual base for the conventional chai spices in addition to citrusy orange peel and a splash of caramel extract.

Green Tea

A bright, pure Ceylon Green tea, mildly astringent and very refreshing; with fresh herb notes complementing a refined and elegant green tea.

Chamomile Tea

Our chamomile uses only the whole chamomile flower heads for the finest aroma, colour and flavour; it is smooth, clean and has a delightful apple-honey finish.
